

South Holland
Symphony

Be creative in 2012

A unique opportunity for the community to be involved in composing their own symphony with a world class orchestra and composer

Be part of the South Holland Symphony

Led by Duncan Chapman,

a composer, sound artist and educator based in Lincoln, a series of workshops and concerts will culminate in the South Holland Symphony being performed by the London Mozart Players in the South Holland Centre as part of an orchestral concert on 19 July 2012.

South Holland Symphony Project

This new project is the result of a partnership between South Holland District Council, Orchestras Live and the London Mozart Players, supported by Arts Council England and The Steel Charitable Trust.

The South Holland Symphony will bring communities together and will provide six high quality concerts by London Mozart Players, South Holland's resident orchestra.

A professional composer will work with communities across South Holland to create this original composition that is inspired by and dedicated to the district.
